

Group 3 Pitch

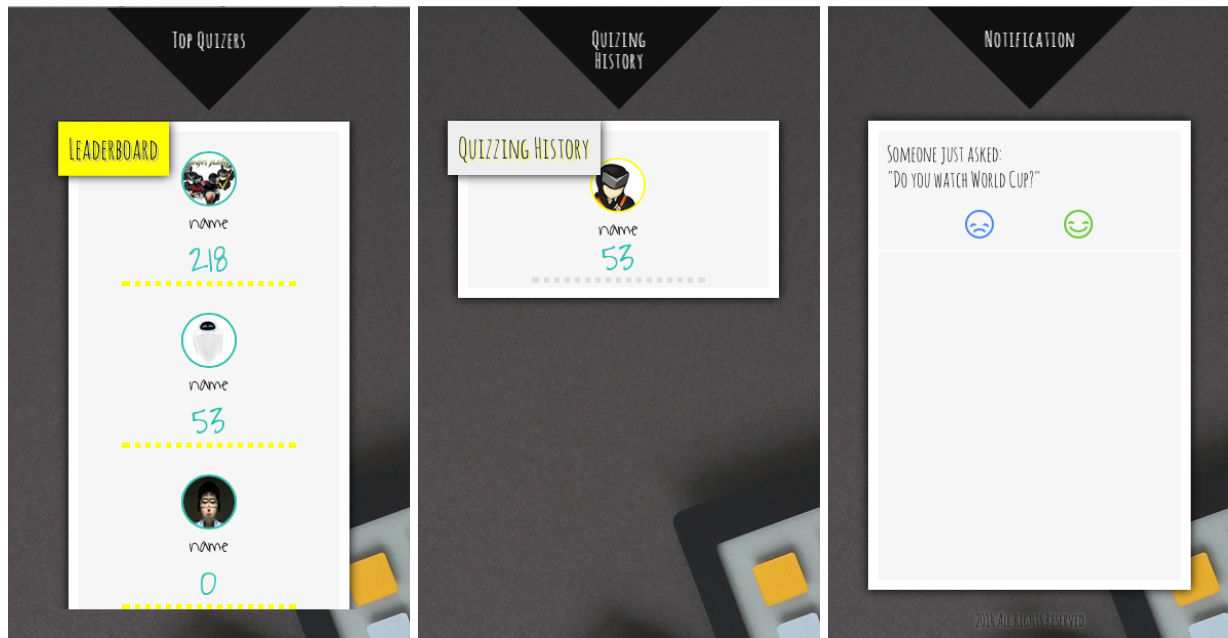

Having a lot of friends yet feels more and more separated from them? Time for you to use our app!

Idea of this app came from a similar quizzing app called “QuizUp”, where people from different location or places would gather and compete towards some pre-set topics. We find that more understanding and communication should be done among friends, which is why we turned the anchor and focus on friend-oriented questions in our app.

We allow you to explore the “hidden” factors about your friends. There is a high chance that a friend of you for more than 5 years who always go to japanese restaurant with you, yet do not like to eat Sushi and ramen at all! And just imagine how grateful “she” would be when you “accidentally” give her something she always wanted?

From playing the game, it is also a process of self-realization, as you would see how much points you could gain from every entry of the game. The points show the level of understanding of you to your friends. You will be able to see how many points your friends have accumulated in total. Let's don't be so lame among our friends!

Come on and join the game with us! :)

QuizIt, answer the questions related with your friends, and understand them better by choosing the correct answers. Try a few more times if the point you obtain is not promising, and dig out more about your friend! Explore and observe who are the most “knowledgeable” friends among those you have, by clicking on the “Leaderboard” menu. It also tells you the points accumulated by this friend, try to keep up your score! You may view your history challenge record from the “History” tab -- are you specifically interested in a certain group of friends’ profile?

We also need your feedback from the “Notification” tab -- simply go to the page, and click on the smiley face if the statement is correct to you. To hide a message, click on the “Hiding” icon.

We make the logout function easier for you, but not recommended for you, because once you log out, the points you’ve accumulated would be gone. Yet it would be a nice function if you want to invite a friend of you to play on your device!

Tab tab tab, and enjoy QuizIt!
